Reserve Bank of India Hikes UPI Transaction Limits

The Reserve Bank of India (RBI) has approved the increase of transaction limits for person-to-merchant (P2M) payments made through the Unified Payments Interface (UPI).

Previously, UPI transactions were capped at ₹1 lakh for both person-to-person (P2P) and P2M payments.

The new update allows NPCI to revise the transaction limits for P2M payments, which could go up to ₹2 lakh or ₹5 lakh in some cases.

The National Payments Corporation of India (NPCI) has been authorized by RBI to revise and set the new transaction limits for P2M payments in collaboration with banks and payment service providers.

The higher limits will benefit merchants, especially in sectors such as healthcare, education, and travel, where high-value digital payments are common.

The decision is a part of India's ongoing push towards a cashless economy, supporting the growing retail market and ensuring a smoother digital payments ecosystem.

The change will allow the payment ecosystem to quickly adjust to new demands without requiring fresh RBI approvals every time transaction limits need to be revised.
