SC Ordered Election Commission to Publish Data on Electoral Bond

The Election Commission of India on its official website on March 14 published the electoral bonds data as ordered by the Supreme Court.

In the data on electoral bonds, the only information available about donors is the name of their company or individual.

In the data released, 1,260 companies and individuals purchased electoral bonds worth ₹12,769 crore. The top 20 companies accounted for nearly half of the total amount donated.

Ms SN Mohanty is the top individual donor with a total donation of ₹45 crore. Lakshmi Niwas Mittal follows with a donation of ₹35 crore.

The Electoral Bonds Scheme was made in 2017 and implemented in 2018. It allows individuals and groups to give money to registered political parties without disclosing their identities.

The Electoral Bonds are Promissory Notes that don't have the names of the buyer or payee. They come in five denominations: Rs. 1,000, Rs. 10,000, Rs. 1,00,000, Rs. 10,00,000, and Rs. 1,00,00,000.0

The Electoral Bond is valid for 15 days from the date of issuance. If it's deposited at the bank after the validity period, no payment will be made to any payee Political Party.

GI Tag to Traditional Majuli Masks in Assam

The traditional Majuli masks in Assam were given a Geographical Indication (GI) tag by the Centre.

Majuli manuscript painting also got the GI label.

Majuli, the largest river island in the world and the seat of Assam's neo-Vaishnavite tradition, has been home to the art of mask-making since the 16th century.

The handmade masks are traditionally used to depict characters in bhaonas, or theatrical performances with devotional messages under the neo-Vaishnavite tradition, introduced by the 15th-16th century reformer saint Srimanta Sankardeva.

The masks can depict gods, goddesses, demons, animals and birds — Ravana, Garuda, Narasimha, Hanuman, Varaha Surpanakha all feature among the masks.

The masks are made of bamboo, clay, dung, cloth, cotton, wood and other materials available in the riverine surroundings of their makers.
