SCIENCE & TECHNOLOGY

North Korea Conducts Test of Underwater Nuclear Weapon System

North Korea has conducted a test of its underwater nuclear weapons system in a protest against this week's joint military drills by South Korea, the United States and Japan.

The test of the "Haeil-5-23", a name North Korea has given to its nuclear-capable underwater attack drones, was carried out by the defence ministry's think tank in the waters off its east coast.

Haeil", which means tsunami, is the new Nuke drone system that was first reportedly tested in March 2023.

It was intended to make sneak attacks in enemy waters and destroy naval strike groups and major operational ports by creating a large radioactive wave through an underwater explosion.
