BANKING

India's Banking System Liquidity Slips into Deficit

- India's banking system liquidity has slipped into deficit for the 1st time this financial year (2023) after the Reserve Bank of India's temporary liquidity withdrawal move and tax outflows.
- As of August 2023, the liquidity of the Indian banking system was reported at Rs 236 billion ($2.84 billion), according to data provided by the Reserve Bank of India (RBI).
- This marked a significant departure from the scenario at the beginning of August 2023 when the banking system enjoyed a surplus liquidity of 2.8 trillion rupees.
- However, liquidity has been declining especially after RBI asked banks to hold an incremental cash reserve ratio (CRR) of 10% on an increase in deposits between May 19 and July 28, 2023.
- This has led to the withdrawal of over 1 trillion rupees.
- Liquidity in the banking system refers to readily available cash that banks need to meet short-term business and financial needs.
